To whom it may concern,

This is to certify that Zach Waturbury from Kent State University successfully participated in the 2019 Trimble Transportation internship program as a part of the Energy Services development team from 5/28/2019 to 8/02/2019

During his time as an intern, Zach's participation included the following:

- Basic training in our core products
- Agile development practices
- Trimble standard development processes
- In depth training in our product specific development practices.
- Feature design
- Bug and Feature coding
- Code reviews
- Build and Release process

Based on Zach's exceptional performance in our internship program, we were able to extend him a part time offer as a developer and currently employee him in that role. His efforts as both an intern and as a part time developer have been greatly appreciated and we look forward to his continued participation with our team.

Best,

Jim Stricker
